FOREWORD

The Third Address Book of Alpha Chi Rho has been compiled largely upon the lines which have proved satisfactory in the past. Most addresses have been furnished by the Brothers themselves, as of date January 1, 1915, though when these were not forthcoming, recourse has been taken to the lists supplied by the Graduate Secretaries and Resident Corresponding Secretaries, whose loyal cooperation deserves the appreciation of the fraternity.

This edition is considerably larger than that of 1913, when only sixty-six pages of addresses were printed, an increase which will in large part explain the delay of publication until May rather than about the first of April as heretofore. The format of the book is not as attractive as we all might wish, but while the list of membership grows, the assessment upon the Chapters has remained stationary. The Secretary makes no claim to perfection in the book and would appreciate any information as to its defects.

FOREWORD

The Third Address Book of Alpha Chi Rho has been compiled largely upon the basis which have proved satisfactory in the past. Most addresses have been furnished by the members themselves as of last January 1, 1915, though when these were not forthcoming, reference has been taken to the lists supplied by the Graduate Secretaries and Resident Corresponding Secretaries whose level verification assures the representation of the fraternity.

This edition is considerably larger than that of 1913, when only sixty-six pages of addresses were printed, an increase which will in large part explain the delay of publication. It is rather than about the first of April as heretofore. The format of the book is not as attractive as we would wish, but with the list of membership given the association upon the Quapaw has rendered satisfactory. The Secretaries have done to perfection in the book and would appreciate any information as to its defects.
